

Electronic Version of Dynamic Chiropractic Is On Line

Editorial Staff

Since 1983, Dynamic Chiropractic has kept our readers informed about the events that affect the chiropractic profession, and the clinical information to keep practitioners up-to-date on the technical aspects of the chiropractic practice.

Coinciding with the our new front-page layout in this premier issue of 1999 and our redesigned website (chiroweb.com), is our first electronic version of DC now available on line at <http://www.chiroweb.com>. You now have access to the latest information concerning what's happening in chiropractic 2-3 weeks sooner.

For the last year, almost 7,000 articles from issues of Dynamic Chiropractic going back to 1990 were available free on chiroweb.com. On the revamped chiroweb.com you can now read the top stories, interact with your favorite columnist, and stay current on the chiropractic events in each of the 75 countries with chiropractic national associations. While this information network is still being developed, it creates a news pipeline direct from the individual person/organization to you with almost no delay.

DC Columnists Are On Line

Where once you just read your favorite columnists, you can now read their biographical information, access their previous articles and even post a comment or question to them on their bulletin boards. Chiroweb.com makes Dynamic Chiropractic an interactive publication.

Chiropractic State, Country and College News

The 50-60 printed pages of Dynamic Chiropractic can't tell all the chiropractic news happening around the world. With space restraints, some information has to be left out, or briefly summarized. But on chiroweb.com we have an unlimited number of pages. We will feature individual pages for what is going on in chiropractic in 75 countries; what is happening at the 32 chiropractic colleges; and the events that are affecting the 50 states. Now, no matter where you live, you can stay informed about the exploding growth of chiropractic worldwide.

Multiple Discussion Forums

One of the most important features of chiroweb.com is the ability for DCs to be able to communicate, discuss issues and share ideas. Chiroweb.com features many Discussion Forums (bulletin boards) which provide a place where DCs can meet and talk. A chatroom is also available for live interaction.

DC News Update

Imagine getting a bi-weekly e-mail newsletter notifying you of the top stories, most recent columns and other information that helps you stay informed. It's just another part of Dynamic Chiropractic going on line at chiroweb.com.

More to Come

This is just the beginning. Chiroweb.com is constantly adding new features and services. Practitioners are busy with their practices in their separate offices all around the world. The result is that many practitioners feel isolated; they feel a lack of connection with the profession at large and bemoan the lack of unity and purpose within the profession. Chiroweb.com will help unify the profession and reduce the isolation. Chiroweb.com is a website where DCs can interact with their colleagues from around the world. The possibilities of the internet are only limited by our imagination.

JANUARY 1999