As Autumn came to the new Seneca Falls campus of the New York Chiropractic College, the NYCC's Center for Postgraduate and Continuing Education presented its inaugural seminar on the weekend of November 3rd and 4th.

Doctors of chiropractic from all over New York State, and eight surrounding states were welcomed by NYCC President Dr. Kenneth W. Padgett. Speakers James Grilliot, DC, D.A.C.B.R., and Edward Maurer, DC, D.A.C.B.R., delivered an informative and entertaining 12 hour lecture, "Comprehensive Management of Low Back and Neck Pain."

A lavish cocktail party and dinner followed the lecture series Saturday evening, and was enjoyed by all.

NYCC Student Receives F. Lorne Wheaton Scholarship Award

Dorothy Fensterer, a student at the New York Chiropractic College, received the F. Lorne Wheaton $1,500 scholarship award from the Trustees of the Lincoln College Education and Research Fund.

Miss Fensterer received the award based on her aptitude and academic achievements, which she has demonstrated in her professional preparation for entry into the chiropractic profession.

Miss Fensterer said upon receiving the check, "I was very surprised, and extremely honored to have been chosen as the recipient of the prestigious F. Lorne Wheaton scholarship award. I will do my very best to continue to fulfill the high standards and requirements of this scholarship."

NCC To Use Pro-Chiropractic Defense Attorneys

The National Chiropractic Council (NCC) announced that lawyers used to defend NCC members, insured through NCC's chiropractic malpractice program, must be chiropractic patients and must be educated about the value of chiropractic.

The NCC feels that some lawyers (hired by the National Chiropractic Mutual Insurance Company) do not appear sympathetic to some doctors' cases and somewhat skeptical about chiropractic in general. To avoid this problem, whether actual or perceived, NCC has decided to select only pro-chiropractic defense attorneys to handle NCC claims.

The NCC believes that an attorney educated about chiropractic procedures will better defend a chiropractor being sued for malpractice.

At present, NCC offers its malpractice program only in California.

Business Network Draws Over 20,000 People in Long Island

The New York Chiropractic College (NYCC) participated in a regional Long Island-NYC Business Networking Conference on November 21, held by the Advancement for Commerce and Industry.

The hundreds of visitors stopping by the NYCC booth were handed information on the benefits of Chiropractic Health Care and educational requirements.

For many, it was their first exposure to health care as espoused by chiropractors. For these individuals, it was an awakening for alternative care to medicine.
