

Oklahaven Children's Chiropractic Center Announces 2010 "Have a Heart" Campaign

Editorial Staff

Oklahaven Children's Chiropractic Center is excited to announce the annual "Have-A-Heart" campaign. This worldwide event will be held during Valentine's week, Feb. 8-14, 2010. The purpose of this event is to increase the awareness of the healing power of chiropractic for very sick children and to benefit Oklahaven.

"It is through the amazing generosity and support of people all around the world that allows us the opportunity to help children with their journey back to optimal health," said Dr. James O'Dwyer, director of Oklahaven. "I am extremely hopeful that our expanded campaign efforts to businesses in your community this upcoming year will not only increase the awareness of our mission, but allow us to provide more children with the chiropractic care they so desperately need."

The prestigious award, "The Golden Heart," is given to the college and practitioner who sells the most hearts. According to past winner Dr. Howard Berg, "It allows the community to see that you do contribute to something greater and that chiropractic makes a difference in children's lives. That's huge."

To learn more about Oklahaven, sign up for the 2010 Have-A-Heart campaign or make a donation, please visit www.chiropractic4kids.com.

Source: Oklahaven Children's Chiropractic Center.