

Could the Next Great Talk-Show Host Be a Chiropractor?

CAST YOUR VOTE BY JULY 3!

As farfetched as it sounds, it is very possible - but only with your help. Oprah Winfrey is running a national contest to find the next great talk-show host and two excellent doctors of chiropractic are in the running. Jackie Buettner, DC, and Spencer Baron, DC, have both submitted strong audition tapes, and it is now up to the public to vote on the hundreds of candidates. The Foundation for Chiropractic Progress strongly suggests you take a few minutes to view their audition tapes and cast your vote.

Jackie Buettner, DC (View Video and Vote)

Jacalyn Buettner, DC, graduated in 1985 with honors from Palmer College of Chiropractic and is currently a fellow in the Palmer Academy of Chiropractic. After realizing her "big city" dream in 1989, Dr. Buettner moved to San Francisco and opened her own practice. Dr. Buettner is an active leader in her profession and has served on the California State Board of Chiropractic Examiners. She has also been the recipient of numerous awards recognizing her for distinguished service to the advancement of the profession. Dr. Buettner's views have been featured on national media, including "Good Morning America" and "World News Tonight." She is committed to increasing the public's awareness of health through her passionate philosophy of life, practice and chiropractic.
