

ChiroWeb Gets a Whole New Look

Editorial Staff

After months of planning and revision, ChiroWeb.com will unveil the latest version of its site on September 15. The site's latest revision is intended to provide easier access to all sections of the site while displaying information in a concise, easy-to-read manner.

Among the newer features available to ChiroWeb are the Internet Mega Search, which lets users look for information and get results from 15 of the Web's major search engines, and an improved search engine for finding articles and graphs from ChiroWeb's archives.

Be sure to visit ChiroWeb.com for the latest news and issues affecting the chiropractic profession.
