

FCER Conference on Chiropractic Research: A Call for Papers

Julie Engebretson

The Foundation for Chiropractic Education and Research, which will hold its annual Conference on Chiropractic Research in Chicago, Ill., Sept. 15-16, 2006, welcomes chiropractic-related research submissions from clinicians, students and faculty in all fields of natural health, including chiropractic, acupuncture, allopathic medicine, massage therapy, naturopathy, nursing and osteopathy. The FCER is touting the conference as "the most prestigious forum within the chiropractic community for presentation of original thought and research in 2006."

Dependent upon the quality of submissions, 80 to 90 abstracts are anticipated to be accepted for platform (60) and poster (20-30) presentation at this year's conference. Submitted abstracts should focus on one of the following research categories:

- diagnostic and basic sciences
- technique and instrumentation
- cost-effectiveness
- safety
- education
- epidemiology and public health

The deadline for abstract submissions is March 31, 2006. Accepted papers will be published in the Proceedings of the 2006 Conference on Chiropractic Research. Bear in mind that submissions will only be accepted electronically via the official abstract submission form on the FCER Web site: www.fcer.org/CCR06/cfp.asp.
